To Whom It May Concern:

I am writing on behalf of my former student, Kazu Ho, whom I had the pleasure to teach when he was in my sixth grade Honors English and Social Studies class at Mark Twain Middle School in Los Angeles, California.

I experienced Kazu as an avid reader who loved books and reading in general. As part of the English course, I require my students to keep a Reading Log, documenting their reading on a daily basis. Kazu participated in this assignment, without failure, turning in his work consistently and completely.

I was impressed with Kazu's learning orientation – very positive and pro-active. In addition, Kazu worked well in group projects and settings, as well as independently. He often was eager to share responses and show his work to the class.

Lastly, let me speak about Kazu's demeanor and personality. Kazu is very polite, well-mannered and personable. Overall, Kazu is a wonderful, well-rounded student and I believe he would be positive addition to any classroom, no matter the subject or grade.

Sincerely,
